

To W. L. Garrison.

Cambridgeport Jan 10th 1875.

My dear friend

I recieved with much Pleasure and many thanks the Book which you so kindly sent by George during the past Week and look forward to the reading of it with great Satisfaction.

It records the History of a great Conflict, that between Science and Religion still going on and which bids fair to remain a Conflict for Ages to come but which we all hope will finally result in a victory for justice and truth.

And now my good friend there remains another History of Another great Conflict to be written, and whose proper and so competent to undertake and carry forward to completion the important work as one who fought so manfully in that long Conflict and who can truthfully say in the language of old Virgil

"Qua quo ipse vidi et quorum Magna Pars fui" A faithful Chronicle of all the events Connected with the Anti-slavery Conflict is loudly demanded and should be commenced at once before the many scars are healed and the thrilling incidents are partially forgotten.

Be persuaded then my dear friend to put in tangible and permanent form a true Record of what took place during that long and Arduous Warfare and so not only do justice to yourself and your own connexion with it, but Confer a lasting benefit upon Posterity.

Yours in much love and true friendship

John Anthony Conchologist at the Agassiz Museum.
